My Child Is Demonstrating Behavioural Issues At Daycare, What Should I Do?

When your child is having behavioural concerns at daycare it is important to speak to the providers to better understand what is happening, when it is happening, and what they are doing to help with these concerns.

- 1 Maybe they are tired or bored.
- 2 Maybe they are struggling to use their words when sharing a toy.
- 3 You can work as a team to support your child with the same consistent approach when managing these behavioural concerns and find ways to help work through these concerns
- 4 Remind yourself that they are still very young and a lot of behavioural concerns are age appropriate and just need routine and a consistent, patience approach.
